NO PAIN, ALL GAIN!

Multimodel Pain Management

Utilising analgesic medications and analgesic techniques to maximise pain relief in pets

6th December 2018

VSSCO, Lisburn | 7.15pm Supper | Talk 8pm

Speaker: Siobhan Menzies

Siobhan graduated from the Royal [Dick] School of Veterinary Studies in 1990. After 2 enjoyable years in mixed practice she moved to s/a practice. She studied homeopathy with the Faculty of Homeopathy, Physiotherapy at the Royal Vet College and in 2003 she studied Acupuncture with the Association of British Veterinary Acupuncturists eventually serving as a council member. Siobhan left general practice and established HolisticPet in order to provide complementary therapies for pets in NI. In 2007 Siobhan attended the Canine Rehabilitation Practitioner program provided by the University of Tennessee. Inspired by this course she opened the province's first dedicated pain management clinic with Earlswood Vet Referrals housing Northern Ireland's first underwater treadmill. HolisticPet now offers veterinary led pain management clinics in 8 veterinary clinics around the province. In June 2017 Siobhan obtained a GP Certificate in Western veterinary acupuncture and chronic pain management. In February 2018 she became the first vet on the island of Ireland to become an Emmett practitioner for animals. She is currently continuing her studies with the University of Tennessee Certified Canine Rehabilitation Practitioner Program which is the only university accredited course in this field. She is passionate about pain management and continues her studies into all aspects of multimodal analgesia. She is a member of the Association of British Veterinary Acupuncturists; the British Veterinary Rehabilitation and Sports Medicine Association; International Association of Veterinary Rehabilitation and Physical therapy; the British Small Animal Veterinary Society and has been accepted onto the RAMP register.
