Nurse Evening Meeting

Gastric Stasis in Rabbits

Matthew Rendle RVN

Thursday 21st November
at 7.15pm

VSSCo, Lisburn
with Fork supper

“Gastric stasis in rabbits is extremely under diagnosed and not well understood, this is a massive welfare issue. In this lecture, I will discuss why it happens, how to treat it, and most importantly how to prevent it! ”

About Matthew

Matt started his veterinary nursing career at The Park Veterinary Centre, Watford in September 1989, a busy mixed and exotics 13-vet practice, where he completed his veterinary nursing qualification and was made Senior Theatre Nurse in 1994. Matt has experience in the nursing care for many species from ants to elephants (and most things in-between) and has been fortunate to travel extensively across the world as part of his roles.

Matt has been involved in veterinary politics for many years and currently is an elected member of the RCVS VN council. Matt is the Chair of AZEVN which he helped found in 2016 to provide CPD for nurses working with zoo, exotics, and wildlife species. Matt also is a member of the board of ACOVENE, who help promote and support veterinary nursing education in Europe.
